ST. ANTHONY HALL WINS OVER PSI U IN SQUASH

Wins Intramural Tournament for Fourth Consecutive Year by 5 to 0 Score

ALPHA DELTS WIN

Triumphs Over Alpha Chi Rho 4 to 1 in Closely Contested Consolation Round

For the fourth successive year St. Anthony Hall won the intramural squash racquets tournament, when they defeated Psi Upsilon in the final match Wednesday, December 13, by the score of 5 to 0. In winning by this score, St. Anthony kept intact their record of not having lost a single individual match for two years. They had very little trouble in taking this match, losing only one game out of the sixteen played. The outcome was never in doubt, the supremacy of the victors being apparent even in the early part of the first game, and the match was completed quickly. A. Shaw managed to get Mason on the run in the third game of their match but Mason soon steadied himself and won the fourth game to take the match. This was the only serious flare-up against the supremacy of the victors.

The results of the individual matches were as follows: Hollins defeated Gallaway, 3 to 0; Mason defeated A. Shaw, 3 to 1; Benjamin defeated B. Shaw, 3 to 0; B. Hall defeated Scott, 3 to 0; Cottrell defeated Heyel, 3 to 0.

St. Anthony received fifteen points toward the Alumni Trophy by virtue of this victory. Due to the fact that they had won permanent possession of the cup offered last year, there was no cup for this tournament.

In the finals of the consolation tournament, Alpha Delta Phi defeated Alpha Chi Rho to the tune of 4 to 1. All the matches were closely contested and the two teams were more evenly matched than the score indicates. The results of the individual matches were as follows: Craig defeated Jackson, 3 to 1; Baldwin defeated Green, 3 to 1; Purdon defeated McGarvey, 3 to 2; Schramm defeated Bayley, 3 to 1; Schmolze defeated Roos, 3 to 2.

Professor Shepard Deplores Attitude of Trinity Men Toward Current Problems

A representative of The Tripod has asked me to "make a few remarks about things in general." Although this is a favorite topic of mine, I prefer at present to speak of another matter.

Like a certain University that once bore our name, we are running this College on tobacco-power. Now, I am not myself a bigoted foe of the nicotine weed, and I see its merits as a fuel. For one thing, it is a mental antiseptic, warranted to slay every germ of an idea in its neighborhood. Whenever we feel tempted to do some thinking, we "reach for a Lucky" instead, and are at peace again. The happy result is that we are all drowsing together here, from the wealthiest janitor to the poorest professor, in the most exciting epoch the world has known. Our students give no trouble to Faculty or Police by asking questions or picketing strikes. When told that the war-makers are preparing to slaughter and mangle another ten million young men, they yawn

NEW YORK ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL MEETING, DEC. 14

Dr. Ogilby, Prof. Kriebel, Coach Jessee, and Phippen Among Speakers

The Annual Meeting and Dinner of the New York Alumni Association was held Thursday evening, December 14, at the Phi Gamma Delta Club. President Bern Budd presided and introduced as the first speaker Mr. Henry Phippen, Alumni Secretary, who spoke about the schedules of Trinity games and about the Alumni Fund. The next speaker, President Ogilby, sketched briefly the progress of the college, the present financial solidity, the condition of the plant, recent achievements of graduates, and the athletic successes of the past year. He closed with reference to the future and the necessity of further development.

Professor Kriebel followed with a concrete picture of the pressing need of a new Chemical Laboratory. He brought out that it has become absolutely impossible for the college to continue without increased facilities. The Honorable Philip J. McCook spoke as an alumnus, a parent, and a trustee, paying due tribute to his distinguished father, who was for forty years a member of the faculty. The next speaker, Mr. Jessee, said some good words about the football team, and spoke about his own ideals and his plans for the future.

The last speaker was Mr. W. S. Langford, who has been for many years Secretary of the Football Rules Committee. He spoke about the college tradition of football, with brief references to his own undergraduate days.

MEMBER OF CHURCH ARMY GIVES CHAPEL ADDRESS

Captain Christopher J. Atkinson, Talks on Purpose of Life Wednesday Morning

SEES CAUSE OF UNREST

Present Turmoil Lies in Failure to Put God's Will Before That of Individual

On Wednesday, December 13, Christopher J. Atkinson, Captain in the Church Army, was the speaker in the Chapel. Captain Atkinson, although a native of England, has been a frequent visitor to this country and is now a resident of New York. For many years he has been interested in the problems of the world and their solutions, and the relationship between these problems and the young men of the present day. His talk in the Chapel was a discussion of one of these typical problems—the purpose of life. The speaker opened his talk by defining the reason for our existence.

"In so many cases of reported suicides, where a reason for the crime is given, it is that the individual fails to see any purpose in living. Where a person feels that life has no goal, suicide is the logical way out.

"At some time or other everyone asks himself why he is in the world; what is the reason for his existence. We find the answer given by a Sunday School scholar, son of wealthy parents, 'Please sir, to make money', wholly inadequate.

"Just as the visitor to the museum cannot conceive that marvelous exhibit of mechanical engineering skill, created to fulfill no useful purpose, to be the work of a balanced intellect, so neither can we conceive an intelligent God to have created the human body, most marvelous of machines in the world, to fulfill no useful purpose or simply to make money."

Captain Atkinson found the answer to this problem in the lesson read earlier in the service. In continuing he said:

"Our Lord himself faced this question, and it is in Him that we find our answer. We heard it in the lesson this morning, 'I came, not to do my own will, but the will of Him who sent me'. We acknowledge that to be the answer every time we pray, 'Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven'. That prayer is but a mockery unless each individual strives to put God's will before his own."

LETTERMEN BARRED FROM INTRAMURALS

The Department of Physical Education has decided that no one who has won his letter in any recognized sport may enter intramural competition in that sport. This ruling was made in order to encourage those who are not athletically inclined to show what talent they may have in these contests. Basketball, track, swimming, and tennis are included in the list of recognized sports, while squash and cross-country are not; but in the future this ruling may be extended to cover the latter as well.

The decision was based on reports from the various fraternities, whose opinions on the matter were requested by the department.

JAYVEE SWIMMERS LOSE FIRST MEET TO H. P. H. S.

Onderdonk and Mixter Win Events as Team is Defeated 42 to 33 in Close Meet

Trinity's newly instituted Junior Varsity swimming team lost a close meet with the Hartford Public High School team last Friday by a score of 42 to 33. Trinity gained two first places. Onderdonk, a freshman, easily won the one hundred yard backstroke in good time. Mixter took the other first place in the diving event, edging out Zbosen of Hartford High. Puchalski and Killian of H. P. H. S. did fine work for the visitors.

Summary:

200-Yard Relay—Won by H. P. H. S. (Puchalski, Krupka, Killian, and Slowik); time, 1.51 3-5.

100-Yard Breaststroke — Won by Evans, Hartford; Morse, Hartford, second; Laus, Trinity, third; time, 1.18.7.

50-Yard Free Style — Won by Slowik, Hartford; tie between Hyde and Buess, Trinity for second; time, 29.6.

100-Yard Backstroke—Won by Onderdonk, Trinity; Trial, Hartford, second; Keenan, Hartford, third; time, 1.21.1.

220-Yard Free Style—Won by Killian, Hartford; Paddon, Trinity, second; Angus, Trinity, third; time, 2.46.

100-Yard Free Style — Won by Puchalski, Hartford; Littell, Trinity, second; Christiansen, Trinity, third; time, 1.02.1.

Fancy Diving — Won by Mixter, Trinity; second Zbosen, Hartford.

150-Yard Medley Relay — Won by H. P. H. S. (Trial, Evans, and Tyler); time, 1.38.1.

BASKETBALL TEAM WINS FIRST GAME, 39 TO 16

N. Y. Aggies are Easily Defeated by Veteran Blue and Gold Squad Saturday

MARTENS HIGH SCORER

Bye Plays Well for Losers—Jayvees Down Morse College in Preliminary

The Trinity basketball team opened its 1933-34 season with a 39 to 16 victory over the New York Aggie five on December 16 at the Hopkins Street gymnasium. A large crowd witnessed the game, and were impressed by the all-around superiority of the Blue and Gold quintet. The contest started slowly, but gradually gathered momentum, and throughout the latter part of the game Trinity scored almost at will.

Nugent, Aggie guard, opened the scoring with a short basket. Seconds later, Tommy Kearns tallied on a nicely executed guard-around play. Liddell put Trinity out in front by sinking a free throw. The score was boosted to a 7 to 2 advantage as Kearns tossed in two more shots. Al Bye rang the bell on a long shot from mid-court to cut the Blue and Gold lead. Pepper Martens and Bob Daut also found the hoop, giving Trinity a six-point lead at half time.

Whatever hopes the Aggies had as the second half opened were rudely shattered by a barrage of Trinity baskets. Daut tossed in a long one, and Kelly followed with a sucker shot. Daut, Liddell, and Martens scored in rapid succession, making the score Trinity 26, Aggies 10. The visitors did not score for ten minutes in the second half, until Silverman broke the ice with a pretty shot. The Aggies were able to penetrate the Blue and Gold defense only twice during the final half. Bye got the other field goal with five minutes to play. Pepper Martens put in three more baskets before the game ended, while Daut and Liddell each added one more to the Trinity total. Coach Oosting put in his reserves near the close of each half.

Coach Jessee, Professor Oosting, Kingston and Maher Reply to Tripod Editorial

Editor's Note—We wish to thank the writers of this communication for their expression of the point of view of coach, player, and arranger of schedules, and we are sure that it will clear up many facts concerning our 1934 football program which have laid the foundation for criticism of it.

To the Editor of the Tripod:

In answer to the editorial in the issue of December 12, the undersigned have met with the purpose of attempting to clarify for the common good the matter of the 1934 football schedule. We appreciate the fact that there has been much criticism and are glad of an opportunity to express our feeling.

It was stated in the editorial that it is unfortunate that after the very successful season just closed that "Trinity should be forced into a schedule such as the one drawn up for 1934." If it were possible to simply sit down and make up a schedule after the close of any season and have our opponents agree to dates, we would undoubtedly have a schedule which would please most of the Trinity followers. Schedules are not made up that way. The schedule for next fall was completed more than a year ago. Some of the dates were decided even two and three years ago. It must be remembered that when next fall's schedule was in the making, our football teams had more games on the losing side of the ledger each year for ten years than on the winning side. With this in mind it would have been unfair to the players, coach and the college to arrange an unusually difficult schedule for 1934.

After playing Colby in the opening game in 1932, Coach Jessee decided that an easier opening game was desirable. You will agree that the coach is the best qualified to judge the value of an opening game to his team.

The 1934 schedule has been criticized for not having more colleges of the type of Trinity listed. We can only state that two parties are necessary in any agreement. We would (Continued on page 2.)

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Last year the Tripod expressed the sentiments of several undergraduates on the question: "Should varsity athletes be barred from intramural competition?" in a column called "The Inquiring Reporter." Opinion was equally divided among the students who were interviewed, and nothing was done about what we considered to be a pressing matter at that time.

This year, however, the Physical Education Department put the question to the various fraternities for vote. As a result of this poll, it has been decided to bar any man who has won his letter in a recognized sport from intramural participation in that sport. This means that from now on the students who are not good enough to win places on our varsity teams in basketball, swimming, track and tennis will have their chance at real athletic competition.

We commend both the action taken by the Physical Education Department in this matter and the unselfish attitude of those fraternities which sacrificed their own interests toward scoring for the Alumni Trophy, as we look for a new and keener interest in Trinity's intramural sports program.

THE COUNCIL AND THE SENATE

Several years ago a group of undergraduates organized themselves into a much-needed Interfraternity Council. Their efforts resulted in the abandonment of cut-throat rushing, and the formation of a definite forum, wherein outstanding fraternity matters might be discussed by various representatives of the eight Greek-letter organizations on the Trinity College campus. Last year the Council was reorganized so that business coming under its jurisdiction was carried on more efficiently than it had been for some time, and a series of constructive plans were brought up, discussed, and acted upon.

Yet, with all its seriousness of intent and dignified order of business, our Interfraternity Council amounts to very little as a governing body. It can carefully formulate rules and regulations, but it has no power with which to enforce them. Unless every fraternity cooperates completely and agrees to comply with rules set forth by the Council, there cannot be a satisfactory rushing agreement. If one house is permitted to carry on as it wishes, disregarding the regulations favored by the majority, the remaining seven will not be content to sit idly by, viewing the distinct advantage enjoyed by the rebellious group.

We are certain that this condition is quite evident to every fraternity and we are sure that the Council will never carry on constructively until it is given the authority to compel each house to regulate its rushing according to the plans favored by the majority. And the Council will never enjoy such cooperation until the Senate gains recognition due it as an important group, so that its recommendations to the Faculty will be acted upon favorably by them. Thus, in the future, if one fraternity should refuse to sign the annual agreement, it would not be able to destroy the constructive good faith of the remaining members of the Council, for the majority could request the Senate to recommend to the Faculty that that house not in sympathy with the rules be decreed off campus; a condition that would undoubtedly result in such a group being unable to rush any of the men in the freshman class.

Thus the future of the Interfraternity Council lies in the honoring of Senatorial recommendations by the Faculty. Despite weeks of discussion and the value of past experiences, the members of the Council will never be in favor, as a body, of every rushing agreement. Yet, if the majority of houses agree to a plan, they should not have to tolerate the independent methods of a rebellious group. A Council without discipline is a weak body indeed, and we urge that our Senate be given recognition as a constructive, representative student organization, so that it might insure the future existence of our Interfraternity Council by being able to recommend disciplinary matters to the Faculty, with every expectation of success.

Book Review

"TWO BLACK SHEEP", by Warwick Deeping. Alfred A. Knopf, publisher.

In "Two Black Sheep" Warwick Deeping delicately weaves a simple love story about two declassé individuals. The unexpected return of Henry Vane, on leave of absence from the British Army, surprises his wife in the midst of one of love's eternal geometric symbols, with Vane succumbing to his unsophisticated but wholly natural impulse, and shoots her lover—the rat. Fifteen years later Vane is excused from jail because of good behavior, and finding himself in the possession of a good income, sets out to see the modern world. He gets as far as Elsie Summerhays, demure governess of sweet little Sally Pym, who, like Wilburforce Rover, delights in dainty pranks such as spilling the soup in Miss Summerhays' second best dress or planking a bowl of "gooky jam"—upside down—on the bald pate of the elderly Mr. Dashwood. Anyway, Vane and Elsie find consolation in each other's intelligence and quiet sense of understanding. Cupid shoots his arrow and love is cemented by that little angel, Sally, who, whether through the entrancement of "Summers'" broad forehead or through the influence of the same understanding nature that won Vane, strangely enough begins to care for her governess and does all in her power to bring the two lovers together (see jam episode above). Things are looking bright and fair until Elsie's mother is taken seriously ill. Elsie is called to her bedside, but because of a peculiar eccentricity of her boss, that old thing Mrs. Pym, she has no money for train-fare back to England. After frantic endeavor to cash Mrs. Pym's useless check, Elsie in desperation takes the three months' salary due her only to be surprised in the act by the old thing. Mrs. Pym goes very feminine with screamings and tantrums, and succeeds in getting Elsie landed in jail for a year. Vane returns from one of his sojourns to find his sweetheart imprisoned, and remains her only hope and salvation during the completion of her sentence.

It is this last part of the story—the final eighty-odd pages—which saves it from mediocrity, and Deeping shows there the full power of his talent. Although "Two Black Sheep" fails to approach Deeping's masterpiece, "Sorrell and Son", there is a charm throughout his works that makes him well worth reading. His style is clever, humorous, and very human. He is a witty and philosophical phrasemaker. For example, of Vane's desire to get away from crowds and hotels he says, "He wanted to buy property and settle down—somewhere where the sophistications of life did not lie like a dog on his doorstep." But to me the outstanding feature of his writing is its lack of cynicism. Unlike many of his contemporaries, Deeping seems to feel that in spite of sorrow and strife there is hope for happiness after all—and that is nice to know.—E. H. C.

OBITUARY

William Daniel Guckenbuehler, of the Class of 1931, died at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, on Wednesday, December 13, from heart failure brought on by an attack of grippe and pneumonia. The funeral services were held at the General Theological Seminary in New York City, where he had been a student for two years and a half. Among those present at the funeral were President Ogilby and R. M. Andrews, '34. James Grant, '33, and William Kibitz, '32, acted as pall-bearers.

COMMUNICATION

like to include more colleges like Haverford, Hamilton, Wesleyan, Amherst, Williams, Colby, Bowdoin, Bates, and Swarthmore because they are small cultural colleges similar in standing to our own institution. The matter of expense prohibits a complete schedule of this kind. We would like, however, to play at least two and preferably three of this group every year.

Regarding the criticism of any of the teams on last fall's schedule, we can only say that in any game incidents will happen which are not pleasant. Good sportsmanship forbids casting reflections on any of our opponents. We value the friendship of all our rivals in intercollegiate sport competition.

The statement that we have been offered a date on the Brown schedule for next year is not correct. The Brown schedule for 1934 is completed like most colleges; in fact their 1935 schedule has been completed except for a recent change which afforded an opening which has been offered to Trinity. The date does not happen to fit into our schedule for 1935, but there is a very slight possibility that an adjustment can be made. It is unfortunate that we cannot determine what type of team we will have two years in advance of the schedule we play. With the team expected back for next year's schedule, it would be nice to test our strength against a large college such as Brown. In 1935 when we lose most of the present squad, we feel that such a game would probably be most disastrous unless, of course, we are fortunate in securing much better than average football material from next year's Freshman Class.

The Athletic Advisory Council, which determines the policy regarding the scheduling of all games, may consider the possibility of a seven-game schedule. This may afford an opportunity to play a team in 1934 or 1935 which will improve the schedule now planned. We hope this will clear up somewhat the misunderstanding regarding schedule-making. It is a most difficult task and the Athletic Advisory Council has given the matter a great deal of consideration and thought. We are not satisfied with next year's schedule, but we realize that it is impossible to arrange to play exactly the schedule we would like because of numerous conflicts in date, the expense factor, plus the necessity of scheduling two and three years in advance.

CHAPEL NOTES.

Next Sunday, December 24, Mr. Watters will play his regular monthly organ recital at 4 p. m., including in his program certain Christmas music. At the Vesper Service at 5 o'clock there will be various Christmas carols, and Mr. Albert Rochon will sing. There will be a Midnight Service and full Communion beginning at 11.30 Christmas Eve. The Reverend Raymond Cunningham and the Reverend E. C. Thomas will assist President Ogilby and Professor Hutt in conducting the service, and members of their congregations at Trinity Church and St. James' Church will attend. On Christmas Day there will be a service of Holy Communion at 8.15 a. m., Christmas carols will be played on the carillon at 11 o'clock Christmas Eve and at 12.30 Christmas Day.

On Monday evening, December 18, there was held the annual reunion of all the men who took part in the building of the Chapel. They met at the Chapel at 6 for a brief service in the crypt, and then adjourned to the dining hall for dinner. Speeches were made by Mr. Harry B. Little of the firm of architects, Frohman, Robb & Little; Mr. R. G. Bent and Mr. Carl Green, representing the contractors; Mr. C. J. Bennett, the College Engineer, and others.

and also turned in a fine floor game.
Bob Daut always had control of the tap, giving Trinity a great advantage in this department. Daut accounted for ten of the team's points.
Tuffy Liddell played his usual brilliant floor game, while Captain Kelly and Tommy Kearns turned in good defensive work.

In the preliminary contest, the Jayvees managed to eke out a 25 to 24
win over Morse College in an overtime period. The Morse five led throughout the game, and but for a spirited rally by the Jayvees, would have emerged victors. Baskets by Warren, Kobrosky, and Ferrucci tied the score at 24 all in the final quarter. In the overtime period Ferrucci made good a free throw to give the Blue and Gold its second successive win of the season. Captain Lerch was outstanding for Morse.

YE TAPPE ROOME.

It has been brought to the attention of this department that a student, in looking over an issue of the Trinity catalogue, could discover no rules or regulations bearing directly or indirectly on the conduct of such undergraduates as should wish to see life in the raw at Ye Olde Englishe Bonde

mention of courses, a very comprehensive list of the faculty, a pretty picture of some trees, another of a large building believed to be the Chapel, and a review of the school calendar. But—no Tappe Roome!

Such being the case, the writer of this article, on behalf of the editors of the Tripod, offers herein a few suggestions on behavior at this sanctum.

Number One: The Approach, or How to Get to the Bar. This is something which must be considered seriously. The chances are that by the time you enter the Tap Room,
there will be roughly forty thousand people seated at tables, forming small huddles on the floor, or trying to get Peggy Peters to meet them in the lobby after closing time. Getting through this impedimenta is a comparatively simple matter. Scientific

BOND SIGNS ORCHESTRA
FOR HOLIDAY PERIOD

Troubadours Secure Engagement
to Play at Local Hotel
for Two Weeks

Next Thursday, December 21, the Trinity Troubadours open a two-weeks' engagement at the Bond Hotel.
The orchestra will play in the main ballroom of the hotel from six in the evening through the dinner and supper hours and up to closing time at one o'clock. The engagement lasts through the Christmas season and
New Year's Eve, Wednesday, January
3, being set as the closing night.

During the past two weeks the Troubadours have received three offers from as many steamship companies to play on ships making the transatlantic runs to Europe next summer. The expenses of the orchestra will be paid in full during both crossings, and the members are at liberty to remain in Europe as long as they may care to, providing they return during the summer season and play during the return trip. At present the orchestra is undecided as to whether it will accept one of the steamship offers or remain in this country and play at some summer resort on the east coast.

The orchestra considers itself extremely fortunate in having secured the Bond engagement because nearly all of the units in the district were competing for it. Numerous engagements have been made for the weeks immediately following January 3, and a full schedule is anticipated for the entire winter season. The Trouba-dours have now been formally organized for a little over two months, and during this comparatively short time they have been accepted as one of the better orchestras of Hartford and its vicinity.

Kobrosky Outstanding as Trinity
Wins 38 to 20—Grasso
Stars for Losers

The Trinity Junior varsity basketball team opened its season with a victory over the State Teachers' College at New Britain on December 12, by a 38-20 count. The Blue and Gold team gained an early lead, and was never seriously in danger throughout the contest. Coach Gil Wright had the opportunity to give the entire squad a chance to see action in the fray.

Kobrosky was the spearhead of the Trinity attack, connecting six times from the field, and once from the free throw mark. The rest of the scoring was well distributed between the Jayvees players. Sneiderman and Grasso were the outstanding members of the Teachers' squad.

PLANS FOR INTRAMURAL
BASKETBALL ANNOUNCED

Scoring System and Eligibility Rules Explained by
P. E. Dept.

No definite schedule has yet been drawn up for the intramural basketball tournament, but it is expected that it will start soon after the vacation. As was the case last year, the twelve competing teams will be divided into two leagues. At the end of the season the winner of each league will meet in the play-off for first and second places. The teams finishing second in each league will also play
each other, the winner to take third place. The winning team will gain possession of the Peter Ogilby Trophy for a year, and will also receive twenty points toward the Alumni Trophy. The team in second place will receive fifteen points, that in third, ten; and, in addition, each team entering its full quota of men in every game will receive three points.

As was the case last year, none of the men on the varsity squad will be allowed to compete. All freshmen are eligible to play until after mid-years,
but any who are placed on the varsity squad at that time will be considered ineligible.

All managers are requested to line up their teams as soon as possible in order to be ready to start immediately after the Christmas vacation.

bartender. There is, for instance, the Approach Apologetic. This consists merely of sliding in front of the nearest customer, at the same time murmuring gently to yourself—it is not necessary to say anything coherent—and simultaneously turning your dazzling smile upon him. Nine times out of eight this will result in the gent getting a bit huffy, so you retire and try the next system.

The Approach Forceful. This method, also called the Wiggle Approach, owing to the definitely wiggling motion essential to its success, can be easily distinguished by the tendency of its user's posterior to pivot from time to time during its progress. The words accompanying the action don't usually require anything more fancy than, "Sorry, old man," or "Pardon me," or "Have you seen anything of an old man with a white beard?" This may make your victim feel that you are really looking for someone and by the time he is aware of being duped, you are in front of him.

Naturally, it would be folly to overlook the Approach Diplomatic, the Approach Cagey, or the Approach Intelligent—which is an organized effort to get one man within howling distance of the beer and waiting until he passes all those in demand back over his shoulder. There is much merriment over this as it practically always ends up with an innocent bystander's new Dobbs being anointed with Schlitz.

It is also cricket, though not compulsory, to wander to the dining room entrance, glass in hand, and regard the occupants therein glassily—the idea being that you may know someone and if so it may be worth-while for you and your comrades to doff your coats and wander over to the table. Once there, you register complete amazement, lean over, and begin a sprightly conversation with good old Charlie who eventually must needs introduce you to the lady friends. If you can outlast him, he will probably suggest you drag up chairs. If you happen to be the Charlie of the case, a half glass of beer spilled in the invader's lap will usually drive him away.

There are seven more rules, all carefully compiled for the benefit of the student who has never been to the Tappe Roome, and which may be had on application to the Tripod office. Unfortunately, they cannot be printed here unless one page is given over to this issue. Which it won't be. So Merry Christmas and if you still want the Rover Boys after this one, Happy New Year!

CAPT. ATKINSON SPEAKS.

The speaker then stated his reason for the present condition of unrest existing in the world.

"The reason for the unrest, the conflict, and the turmoil in the world today is to found in man's self-will.

The world badly needs young men who will put God's will before self-will, the interest of others before self-interest, the glory of God before self-glorification, the welfare of others besides his own.

"Trust God, because He is trustworthy. Trust Him, because He is no fool. He knows more about our lives than we do. Trust Him, because He is working for our best and highest interests; and not for ours only, but for those which will bring the greatest good to the greatest number of people."

In concluding, Captain Atkinson summed up his address with the definite purpose in life for each person:

"Since I realized that I was in the world to do the will of God, and strove to do it from day to day, I have known such a peace and contentment and freedom from anxiety as never before. Trust God and do His will; for that is the purpose of life."
